

Dan always uses a fine-tooth comb.

You can rely on experts like Dan at your local John Deere dealership. He's just one of many hard-working technicians who can put you on track for a successful harvest with an offseason combine inspection.

The best-trained technicians in the industry will comb through your combine to identify and replace worn components to prevent downtime, increase productivity ... even boost grain quality. And with access to Genuine John Deere, Reman and A&I parts, we'll work to stay within in your budget. Plus, Genuine John Deere combine parts now carry a 12-month warranty that includes labor.*

Schedule your offseason combine inspection today at your John Deere dealer with an expert technician like Dan.
